SUPERVISORS ADJOURN WITH NO INQUIRY

Advised by Lynne Kelly, Grass Valley attorney, and concurred in by Vernon Stoll, district attorney, that the board of supervisors was without jurisdiction to conduct an inquiry into the superior court, the board adjourned Saturday morning 30 minutes after convening without action.

The meeting was called by the board to obtain testimony concerning an alleged stop order of destruction of four slot machines seized in a raid of Skyline lodge last January.

The machines had been ordered destroyed by R. N. Little, justice of the peace of Meadow Lake township.

Supervisors Frank Rowe and Carl J. Tobiassen had appeared at the sheriff's office Tuesday, April 5, to witness the destruction of the machines. The destruction failed to materialize. Sheriff Richard W. Hoskins was in Truckee, and upon his return stated there had been a misunderstanding in his office and set yesterday as a new date for the machines' destruction.

The four slot machines were demolished yesterday afternoon by Deputy Sheriff Otis Hardt in front of the Nevada county sheriff's office. The smashed machines are in the county dump yard.

Rowe declared he was not satisfied with developments and with Supervisors Warren Odell, J. C. Coughlan and Tobiassen called the special meeting.

Kelly asked for the floor first and stated he was representing James Snell, superior court judge, as a citizen and as a jurist, and protested the meeting as illegal in that it was called to investigate the affairs of the superior judge, and such inquiry was not with the jurisdiction of the board. Kelly said such inquiry was the province of the attorney general or by impeachment proceedings. Kelly further advised the board it might be liable to slander action, should its members, either as private citizens or in offical capacity, offer defamatory statements. Kelly added any witnesses making defamatory statements would be liable also. Kelly further added any statements finding their way into newspaper columns could possibly be a source of libel action.

Asked by Chairman Odell for his opinion, District Attorney Stoll concurred with Kelly's statements. Stoll said the board had no grounds for an investigation of the sheriff's office.

Asked by Rowe what redress the board had, Stoll replied none.

The board adjourned.

WILLIAM PODBREGER DIES SUDDENLY IN DOCTOR'S OFFICE

William (Bill) Podbreger, 49, who came to Nevada City two years ago for his health and because he loved the mountain country, died suddenly in the office of Dr. Bernard Hummelt Friday while awaiting his turn for a medical interview.

Podbreger, well known and a popular Nevada City resident despite his few years in the city, died of an acute heart attack. He had been subject to a heart illness for some time.

The Nevada City man had been employed during his residence here as a mechanic for the Paul Viles automobile agency in Grass Valley. He had taken time off during the day to consult Dr. Hummelt.

Podbreger was a capable workman and well liked by his associates. His passing was a shock to them, his family and his many associates. Many bowling enthusiasts knew Podbreger as a member of the Paul Viles team.

A native of Colorado and born March 19, 1900, Podbreger was a veteran of World War I.

He is survived by his wife, Mary L. Podbreger; two sons, William J. Podbreger, Grass Valley; David Podbreger, U. S. navy, a daughter, Mrs. Wanda Banks, Oakland; and three grandchildren.

The family made their home in Oakland before moving to Nevada City and residing at 220 Jordan street.

Services were held at 2 p.m. Tuesday, April 19 at the Myers Grass Valley Mortuary Chapel on South Auburn street with cremation following at Sierra View, Marysville. Rev. John McDonald of the Nevada City Baptist Church was the attending clergyman.

LOW STORAGE LEVELS REPORTED IN NEVADA COUNTY RESERVOIRS

Bowman and Spaulding reservoirs are considerably under storage capacity for this time of the year, a recent bulletin of the state division of water resources discloses.

Of the four reservoirs in the Nevada county area, Bowman with a capacity of 68,000 acre feet, is carrying 2,200 and last year at this time had 3,800 acre feet.

Spaulding with a capacity of 150,000 acre feet is carrying 16,800 at present and last year at this time had 74,600.

Scotts Flat with a capacity of 26,800 is well up with 22,600 acre feet. Last year it had 6000.

Lake Combe with a capacity of 7,200, is nearly full at 5,600. Last year at this time it was at capacity.

LIONS DANCE AND CARNIVAL SATURDAY NITE

Nevada City Lions club will sponsor a carnival dance Saturday night at the veterans memorial building, Grass Valley, starting at 8 p.m., and continuing until 1 a.m. Proceeds of the dance will go to the Nevada City girl scout camp at Scott's Flat. A television set will be presented at the dance as a highlight of the evening.

Booths will be located around the large auditorium for those not caring to dance. A variety of games is scheduled.

In a message enlisting support for the drive and carnival dance, the Lions club has sent out this message:

"Nevada county has a beautiful lake formed by the Nevada Irrigation District dam at Scott's Flat. The Nevada City girl scout council has made it very plain that the camp will be available to all Nevada county youth groups upon application. The council of course, will reserve the right to schedule these groups to suit its arrangements.

"With the opportunity within our grasp to provide our children in Nevada county with a chance to use a nearby, beautiful campsite, it behooves all of us to back the Nevada City girl scout council. The camp has been started, but it is a very long way from completed. It takes plenty of money and elbow grease to get the job done, but it can be done if Nevada county organizations will pull together and back the project."

One of Abbott and Costello's outstanding movies will be shown the children of Nevada City and surrounding areas Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the elementary school, according to Lou Moran, fund drive chairman of the Scott's Flat girl scout camp.

Admission for the show, which will be accompanied by a selected short feature, will be 20 cents.

John Rankin was program chairman of the regular meeting last night at Deer Creek inn.

Final arrangements were completed last night for the carnival dance Saturday night.

EARLY-DAY PICTURES DISPLAYED IN LOCAL BROAD STREET STORES

Early day pictures of Nevada City and area and some of its citizens are on display in the windows of the Antique store at the National hotel and the Nugget.

Mrs. Floy-Margaret Reynolds found the pictures now on display in the Nugget window in the Nevada theater recently. They include what appears to be a high school graduating class of about 1910, a confirmation class of about 1922, a young men's organization of the time of the first World war, and a picture which has been identified by Mrs. Geneva Bell Gilcrest of Fresno to be Dr. Muller.

The pictures and early day mementos on display at the Antique store are placed there by Mrs. C. A. Health who acquired them last week from Mrs. Lily Peterson, Spring street. The items were stored in a house in North Bloomfield and originally came from the North Bloomfield hotel.

In addition to photographs, a register and cards, there was included a hand-lettered advertising card for the Nevada City Union hotel, which had been operated by the grandmother of Dr. Howard Naffziger, native of Nevada City, and now a noted brain surgeon in San Francisco.

Construction started July 1, 1912 and contractors and decorators turned the building over to the lodge the following March 1. Initiation, dancing and festivities formally dedicated the building March 14, 1913, but it was short-lived when the 1914 fire totally destroyed the building.

Nothing daunted the lodge members met the day following the fire, and two weeks later rebuilding started, and was ready for occupancy Jan, 1, 1915.

Total cost of the two buildings was $59,872.81, of which $11,000 was salvaged by fire insurance. The debt was amortized by 1921.

GRAND JURY RECOMMENDS PAY RAISES

The Nevada county grand jury has recommended salary increases for the offices of superior court judge, district attorney and auditor, and the secretary of the grand jury has forwarded such recommendations to the board of supervisors of Nevada county, Assemblyman Francis Lindsey and State Senator Harold Johnson.

The recommendations call for an increase in the superior court judge's salary of $1,300 annually. The present salary is $8,700. The office received an increase of $1,500 in 1947 from the state legislature.

The grand jury recommended an annual salary of $8,000 for the district attorney, provided the incumbent does not practice privately. If the district attorney elects to maintain a private practice along with his public office the jury recommends an increase of $1,000 annually from the present $3,000.

The recommendation also calls for an increase from $1,200 to $1,580 per year for the county auditor.

CLARK-ENGLE APPEAL DISMISSED, REPORTER HAS USABLE RECORD

Defendants in the Clark-Engle damage suit asked for dismissal of their appeal Tuesday afternoon, ending the necessity of unscrambling the shorthand notes of Fred Rund, North Sacramento court reporter, who substituted for Miles D. Coughlin, regular superior court reporter, during the trial last July.

Superior Court Judge James Snell said Rund had prepared a fairly complete transcription of his notes, and was only unsatisfactory in the length of time it took to supply the transcription.

Joseph O. and Alice Engle were awarded $27,500 by a Nevada county superior court jury as damages for injuries sustained in an auto accident between Summit and Soda Springs on highway 40 on July 26, 1947. The plaintiffs had asked for $61,000 from James W. Clark, George Rudolph and others.

SLOT MACHINES LICENSED BY CITY COUNCIL

Nevada City council adopted an ordinance placing $50 license per quarter year on the first free-play slot machine and $25 license per quarter-year on additional machines, at an adjourned meeting Thursday night at city hall.

H. F. Sofge motioned and William C. Mullis seconded the ordinance be adopted. Roll call vote added Leo Cullen and Mayor A. B. Innis for adoption. Thomas F. Taylor voted against.

The council approved all recommendations and appointed them to the commission. They were John Larue, J. F. Siegfried, William Novak, Stan Halls, Lloyd Le Febvre, Max Flindt and Bell.

The commission will meet at least once monthly and submit written reports to the council. The commission's major function will be the recommendation of improvements to the city.

The construction of a fence around the baseball diamond, which had been approved at the previous meeting of the city council, was referred by the council to the newly formed commission.

The council also approved an advertising folder submitted by Bell, on behalf of the chamber of commerce, and underwrote financial support to the extent of $300, $75 to be earmarked for artist's work and the additional $225 to be paid upon publication. The folder calls for 20,000 lithographed multi-colored copies of a map of the Nevada City area to be printed by a Fresno firm for $900. The art work is being prepared by George Mathis, local artist.

Location of a new street on Piety hill was tabled until the next meeting.

RECREATION LEADER APPLICATION TO BE RECEIVED BY BOARD

Applications for the post of recreation director of Nevada City will be received soon by the local school board of trustees. The announcement was made Monday evening at a regular meeting of the board at elementary school library.

The job of recreation director, to plan and administer a city-wide recreation program, was approved at the March meeting of the board.

A qualified director is expected to be chosen within the next month. The salary is expected to be about $3,500 a year. The state athletic association will supply names of trained directors from whom the board may make a selection. The program of community sports and recreation is expected to get under way early this summer, according to Howard Penrose, president of the school board.

The board voted to accept new appraisal values on high school property and adjust issurance policies to agree with increases.

Nevada City teachers will be required to take annual chest X-ray examinations early next month. The service is being arranged by Mrs. Isabel Hefelfinger, school nurse.

The board heard reports from Ed Frantz and Lloyd Geist who attended state conventions during Easter week. Frantz attended the California High School Principals' association convention in San Diego, while Geist attended a convention of elementary school leaders in Santa Cruz.

The board authorized purchase of transcription record player for use in classes at the elementary school.

Board members discussed establishment of a cooperative work program in the high schol to provide on-the-job work in connection with school classes.

The program, authorized by the state department of education, allows high school juniors and seniors to engage in as much as three hours a day of practical work in a variety of skills and trades. Classes at school would add to the student's training in the chosen field.

Frantz reported the tile roof at the high school had been repaired at a cost of $500. The roof was damaged during the heavy snows last winter.

Attending the meeting were Penrose, Frantz, Geist, Dr. W. C. Hummelt, Eldon W. Kendrick, and John Larue.

BUILDING HOME INDUSTRY

The Bret Harte dairy received many pledges of support in its campaign to increase its service to Nevada City and the county, but a start will not do the job alone. We must keep everlastingly at it.

The effort that has started this trend to purchase home-produced goods must be maintained and accelerated. WE CANNOT REST ON OUR OARS.

Every person in Nevada City and the county can help to increase the payroll and thereby the prosperity of the community. Always remember — EVERY BREADWINNER PUT TO WORK IN NEVADA CITY ADDS $3500 ANNUALLY TO THE CIRCULATION OF MONEY THROUGH THE NEVADA CITY STORES. Circulation of money retained here is what will make this community a live town.

We know full well it is inconvenient for a purchaser to take home the milk bottle when there are milk cartons handy for the choosing. But if the consuming public will tolerate that inconvenience for a few short weeks the local dairy can supply the public with paper cartons.

It would be much worse for the community to lose the 15 to 30 breadwinners now employed by the local milk producer, the loss of which would probably cause the closing of two or three business houses and start an increasing crescendo of losses of breadwinners and small businesses.

And let's not overlook the 25 more or less families who would be added to the community by the creation of jobs that would result from the tripling of the capacity of the local dairy.

And let's not overlook other local industries. Before you make that purchase from out of town, from the mail order houses, think about the local merchant. More than likely he will be able to supply or serve you with your needs.

We have two fine bakeries here. There are several excellent machine shops capable of repairing equipment and capable of manufacturing complete machines. The local garages, retail stores, plumbers, and other craftsmen can supply your wants.

And we have many top flight professional men—doctors, lawyers, a mortician, dentists.

If we were to add up all the retail purchase money that leaves Nevada City for needs that can be home produced or home supplied the figure would be far above the $1,000,000 a year mark.

Think it over the next time you plan to send a dollar out of the community that could well stay here. Then if you send that dollar out of town don't go around complaining how dead the town is—how poor the town is.

Remember this—the amount of retail money that leaves Nevada City EACH DAY would keep a family for one year.

CONGRATULATION, LIONS CLUB!

The Nevada City Lions club this Saturday culminates a campaign to raise funds for the Girl Scout Camp at Scott's Flat. The climax will be the carnival dance in a Grass Valley hall, and the climax of the climax will be the awarding of a television set to some lucky person.

Congratulations, Lions club, for a job well done.

A thing a lot of people in this country can't seem to learn is that it is wholly possible to tax business out of existence. Too many people when a proposition to levy more taxes comes up lack the will power to vote against it. They remind us of Rip Van Winkle, a never do well in Washington Irving's story "Rip Van Winkle." Rip had a good deal of trouble with liquor and when invited to drink resisted faintly for a time and finally wound up by saying, "Well, all right, seeing it's you, we won't count this one." That is the way too many people are in the matter of resisting tax increases. A lot of the high prices charged these days are made necessary because of too many heedless and needless taxes.

PROPOSED FARM PROGRAM

Last fall some of the pear and plum producers in my district asked me about the possibility of securing a support price for their production. Since then there has been considerable activity among the farmers of California along the same line.

Of interest to them will be Secretary Brannan's recently announced program. In it, he in effect assures the American farmers of continued high prices and the American consumers of lower prices. Agricultural commodities will, according to his plan, be permitted to reach their normal price level on the open market but in the event that price falls below a certain parity figure the difference will be made up by the government in the form of a subsidy. It boils down then to the federal treasury making up the difference between the price paid on the market and the price if the parity price is higher.

There are three things the farmer should consider in connection with this program.

BASIC QUESTIONS INVOLVED

First, is it desirable to go into a permanent subsidy program for American agriculture?

Secondly, if the government guarantees the price, isn't the government also going to limit the production so that there will not be over-production forcing the market far below the guaranteed price? In other words, will the government guarantee a price and yet not insist on some limitation on production to prevent the treasury from being stuck with unlimited surpluses?

Third, if the government is going to guarantee higher prices to agriculture, what answer is there to those in industry and labor who ask for similar guarantees? In short, will this program not establish a precedent for a demand by organized labor for a guaranteed annual wage and a demand by the operators of many of our large industries, such as steel, automobiles, etc. for a guaranted price for their production?

All three of these questions should be very carefully considered by the farmers before they agree on a permanent basis to go into the program advocated by the secretary of agriculture. All that glitters may not be gold.

ASSESSMENT PERIOD EXTENDED

The house committee on public lands approved the action of the mines and mining subcommittee in refusing to adopt legislation granting another moratorium on mining assessment work but giving the miners three additional months this year (extending the time from July 1 to Oct. 1.) for completing the assessment work which under the present law must be completed by July 1. No opposition to this measure is expected in the house but it is not known how it will be accepted on the senate side. However, it is apparent now that there will be no outright moratorium on assessment work such as has been granted in previous years.

SLOW—SCHOOL ZONE

The California vehicle code specifically limits speed in school zones to 15 miles per hour at times when children are entering or leaving school premises during recess and when school playgrounds are in use, the California State Automobile association points out. Drivers are urged to cooperate fully with school safety patrols as they guide children at street crossings near schools.

FOR YOUR SAKE

In heavy traffic, make haste slowly for your own safety's sake, urges the California State Automobile association.

Just Wonderin'

I Wonder now that spring is here
With budding trees and fragrant flowers,
How we may guard her rare delights
As we enjoy her sunlit hours.

I Wonder if Californians are beginning to realize that our native birds are an asset in more ways than one. It is now some time since we have heard anyone advocating the extinction of certain species and so I am venturing to believe that a certain form of spring madness is past.

California has a wealth of beauty, color and music in her birds and beside the charm which their presence lends to any scene, there is their worth as insect destroyers to be considered. They are the natural enemies of garden pests of all sorts and when an appeal to the artistic sense of beauty fails we should at least consider utility.

Nevada County is rich in the varieties of birds and now that spring is here, we should protect these little feathered brothers and teach our children lessons of helpfulness and conservation which are needed if we wish to preserve the distinctive beauties of our particular localities.

Once, not so many years ago, there was in our state an unsuccessful campaign whose object was the elimination of the meadow lark. At one time a Los Angeles tourist loudly demanded the destruction of the mocking birds. In recent years, we observed the wanton killing of thousands of blue jays, although ornithologist and bird lovers protested vigorously and point out the fact that this beautiful bird was worth his weight in gold as a consumer of insects. The destruction of the blue jay went on and that without discrimination; the killing included the lovely stellar jays of higher altitudes and the blue birds which were once numerous in this and other sections of the state.

When we tell young boys that, "God made the birds," and that, "not a sparrow falleth to the ground without its heavenly Father's notice," isn't it inconsistent to arm them with sling shots and pop guns and greet the dire results of their marksmanship with the complacent remark, "boys will be boys?" Of course, birds do sample our fruit and dig up a few hastily planted seds, but one of the wisest men I ever knew used to say, "when those little critters begin to peck at my fruit, they are just telling me that it's ripe and ready for gathering."

It is always pleasant to find some good where we have discerned much that is evil and so I was glad to learn that in Russia, birds are protected and that school children are rewarded for building bird houses for starlings and other species of winged ceatures. In that respect, we might well follow an example set by Russia.

"Man's inhumanity to man," has been noted through the ages, his ruthless cruelty to his little brothers of the air has been just as great. Can it be that at long last the value of bird life is to be recognized and that we shall find parents, teachers and educational institutions reversing the tendencies of destruction and teaching the young of the land that

"He liveth best who loveth best
All things both great and small,
For the dear God who loveth us,
He made and loveth all."

Nevada County Long Ago

Floy-Margaret Reynolds

20 YEARS AGO

The extensive interests of the Empire Mines, with the world's record for production of sixty millions in its 78 years of existence, was sold to the Newmont Mining company. The sale included approximately 1000 acres of mineral holdings as well as mineral rights under a large portion of Grass Valley townsite and included the Ophir Hill properties, the Pennsylvania, W. Y. O. D., Wyoming, Cassidy and the Sultana group. The Empire was equipped with a sixty stamp mill on its main property and a cyanide plant. At the Pennsylvania were a twenty stamp mill and a hoisting plant. George W. Starr, manager since 1887 and Fred W. Nobs, manager at the time of the sale, were credited for the high standard which had made the Empire one of the foremost gold properties in the world. Fred Searls was in charge of arranging the details of the transaction.

The Oakland Kiwanis club was installing hospital facilities at Lake Vera as an adjunct to Camp Celio, the summer camp of the Oakland Campfire girls.

The junior class of the Nevada City high school held a meeting to discuss plans for their prom and appointed as a decoration committee, Dorothy Tamblyn, Vivian Cerro, Thelma Boreham, Holden Pierce and Bob Polglase. The advertising committee consisted of Grace Towle, Elizabeth Godfrey and Addison James.

50 YEARS AGO

Mrs. Lyman P. Friskie, a pioneer woman of Nevada City, died in the Alameda county hospital, and was buried in Potter's field. Mrs. Friskie came to Nevada City with her husband in 1851 and together they opened a saloon and restaurant on Coyote street which was the gathering place for political, professional and mining celebraties of the day. Such men as the Hon. Wm. M. Stewart of the U. S. Senate, Attorney General McConnell, the Hon. Niles Searls, Senator Sargent, Supreme Justice Hawley of Nevada and many others gathered around the tables to revel in the joys of good fellowship. Later the Frisbies built a theater adjoining the saloon which played the greatest attractions of the day at a dollar and half a seat. Such stars as Edwin Booth, David Warwick, John Wilkes Booth and Julia Dean Hayne trod the boards and entertained the red shirted populace of the hustling mining camp. Lotta Crabtree was discovered on the stage of the old Friskie house.

The Nevada City post office continued as a second class office, having done only $8000 worth of business during the year. It was hoped the receipts from stamps and box rents would exceed $10,000 in order that the city might have a free delivery service.

75 YEARS AGO

J. S. Holbrook filed bonds and took out a license for Nevada county to sell at public auction everything in the way of property, from a toothpick up to a thousand acres of land. His office was located at the junction of Main and Commercial streets.

The continuation of a gold ledge known as the Italian in the rear of the National Hotel was discovered near Temperance Hall at the foot of the step leading up to Prospect Hill. The ledge was at a depth of eight feet and was three feet in thickness and was rich in sulpurets and free gold.

It is not well to see everything, to hear everything; let many causes of offense pass by us unnoticed. —Seneca

When men speak ill of thee, so live that nobody will believe them. — Plato

To punish ourselves for others' faults, is superlative folly. The mental arrow shot from another's bow is practically harmless, unless our own thought barbs it.

The happiness of life depends less upon what befalls us than upon the way in which we take it. —Lavater

To ruminate upon evils, to make critical notes upon injuries, and be too acute in their apprehension, is to add unto our own tortures, to feather the arrows of our enemies, and to resolve to sleep no more.

Gold Digger's Trail

Charles Scott Haley

In the morning we would be aroused by the steward about seven, with a plate of fruit and a cup of coffee. About eight thirty would come an enormous breakfast, American and English style, with kidneys, bacon, ham, crumpets, jams and jellies galore. About twelve o'clock, in case any of the passengers were hungry, the stewards passed out bouillon, crackers, and sherbets. At one thirty came a stupendous lunch, even greater than the breakfast. At four, religiously, tea, more crumpets, butter, jam and jelly, together with cakes. At eight came the dinner, which was the piece de resistance. Everybody dressed or was frowned on for not having dress clothes with him. Food unlimited of every variety and condition, and a wonderful selection of liquors, kept the entire company busy till half past nine, after which some of the boldest even had energy enough to dance. Then, at twelve o'clock, in case anyone might be feeling a bit faint, there was a cold buffet served in the dining room.

We made a stop for a day or so at Colon, then arrived at Jamaica, where most of our cargo was unloaded. Coming into the blue waters of Kingston, our passengers were greeted by a flotilla of small boats from which dusky grinning natives dove for coins dropped overboard. I never saw a coin missed, either.

We went to the Myrtlebank hotel for our luncheons for a day or two, and drove around the city. I took one of the ridiculous little tram cars downtown one day, for local color, and was well repaid for my pains. The flat, toneless English of these colored "British objects" was well revealed when a stout lady of two hundred pounds, carrying an enormous load of laundry on her head in a basket, was carried one block past her desired place of disembarkation. She stopped on the sidewalk and read the conductor's ancestry and intimate history for half an hour. Nothing loath, he held the car while he responding with even more ingenuity and curious English on the lady's antecedents. This had been going on for nearly an hour when I decided to walk the few remaining blocks back to the hotel. The other passengers apparently took it all as part of the day's work, and even joined the comments.

Life is very leisurely on this island, and the cigars are cheap and excellent. The war and lazy climate and the innumerable natural beauty spots, make it a perfect island for vacationing. I found a little silver puzzle in one of the trinket shops which consisted of several bracelets linked into one another. The vendor showed me how simple it was to combine them into one beautiful piece of workmanship, and I bought it to take home to my niece.

Later, she dismounted it, and for two years at odd moments we labored jointly to get it together again—without achieving success.

After two days of loading fruit, our boat turned toward the western end of Cuba. We did not include Havana in our itinerary, but swung northward, toward New York.

One afternoon in late January we were lying around the decks in silk shirts and the lightest of clothing. The next evening, we were heading in past Sandy Hook, and the temperature was only a little above zero. In the morning, we disembarked for my first visit to New York, which naturally is always the one which makes the deepest impression, and dozens of subsequent visits fail to obliterate the memory.

I wore the heaviest clothes ashore that I possessed, and as Knox and I took a taxi up to the McAlpin Hotel, I looked at a thermometer. It was ten above zero. I had experienced twenty-eight below in Denver, but this was different. The moist sea climate made a blanket of cold which chilled to the bone. As soon as we were located in our hotel, I went shopping.

I bought a heavy overcoat and a knit vest, some heavy full length woolen underwear, fur-lined gloves and a muffler. I did not have them delivered, but put them all on at once—even the underwear. Thus equipped, I felt able to sally forth and see the island of Manhattan from the standpoint of a properly equipped explorer.

It took us about two weeks to complete and submit all of our maps and reports. In the meantime, I had become a typical New Yorker, who, as you know, is somebody who was born in another state, educated in another country, and who can tell you all about New York in the first hour of his acquaintance with you. Later years have taught me much in this regard.

I had brought with me several thousand good Colombian cigars, which I purchased at Mariquita. These are made at Ambalema, and compare favorably with Havan tobacco. On trying to land them, I found that the duties would be a lot more than the cigars originally cost me. So I regretfully turned them over to Knox, who put them in bond to take home to England, where duties were non-existent. By filling my overcoat pockets with Jamaicans and using all the well known strategies with which tolerant customs officers are familiar, I had brought in more than I was supposed to, anyhow. And in a day or two I saw my friend off to London in the Kronprinzess in Cecilie, along with my beloved cigars. Later, I was much amused in San Francisco, by a call from Knox's brother, who had been over to London to visit him.

Laurel Chapter Observes 62nd Anniversary

Laurel Parlor, Native Daughters of the Golden West celebrated its 62nd anniversary with appropriate ceremonies last night.

Initiation and business meeting was presided over by Christina Kite, president, followed by program and refreshments.

Vera Steger and Beth Wilson were joint chairmen of the meeting.

The parlor honored Lulu Clutter Jones, only living charter member.

Grand president of the Native Daughters of the Golden West, Margaret Farnsworth, of Vendome parlor, San Jose, recently made her official visit to Laurel parlor and Manzanita parlor at a joint meeting held in Grass Valley.

Previous to the business session of the parlors, a reception and dinner was held in her honor at the Veterans Memorial building with over eighty Native Daughters attending.

A theme of springtime was carried out in blossom and golden tapers, and place cards, miniature maps of California with the golden figures of '49 made the tables very beautiful. The place cards were hand made by the committee.

The lodge room was a bower of blossoms in the springtime theme, making a beautiful setting for the officers who all were in formals.

The grand officers and the officers of Laurel and Manzanita parlors were conducted to their chairs by an escort team carrying letters symbolic of each parlor. The letter L was made of laurel leaves, and the letter M was made of manzanita leaves.

Laurel parlor opened and closed the meeting with President Christine Kite presiding.

During the opening ceremonies, a reading—"Our Flag", was given by Carrie Berryman of Manzanita parlor and deputy grand president to Paurel parlor.

Manzanita parlor conducted most impressively the ritualistic rites for three intiates. During these ceremonies, a vocal solo, "I Love You California," was rendered by Betty Hansen of Manzanita parlor.

Corsages were presented to the grand officers, orchids to the grand president, and camellias, gardenias and carnations to the other grand officers.

Presentation of gifts to the grand president were made by both parlors in beautiful ceremonies. Manzanita parlor's presentation was made by President Margaret Myers and her vice presidents, Myra Odgen, Edwina Cowles, and Ellen Percy in a theme of floral offerings in lodge colors of red, white and yellow. After the offerings by the vice presidents, they were combined with the parlor's gift, and then presented by the president.

In a beautiful ceremony, each floral offering was presented with a speech, discriptive of the flowers and their significance.

Laurel parlor used a theme, Marguerites and golden centennial. Presentations were made by an escort team, each wearing a cornet of Marguerites, and carryand a golden chain of Marguerites and a golden chain of Marguertes forming a lane for the gift donors to pass through. The golden boxes held a gift for each girl of the escort team.

Laurel parlor's, first vice president, Byrl Granholm's presentation was a vocal solo, "The Daisy's Love Song."

Past President Sarah Charonnat presented an offering symbolic of California—a beautful bouquet of golden flowers hid with streamers of gold, and blue ribbon.

Thelma Butz presented a golden box that represented our gold with a gold rose and Marguerites. In the box were pebbles symbolic of placer gold and rock, and encased in a poke was Laurel's gift. Each gift was presented with original compositions, and copies of these, were presented in golden booklets, embossed in Marguerites to the grand president. President Christine Kite presented a composition, "Pioneers". It was also in a golden booklet.

Columbia parlor presented a lovely gift to one of their officers.

The Grand President paid Columblia parlor an official visit that afternoon and a large delegation from the parlor came to greet her at the joint meeting of Manzanita and Laurel parlors.

During the evening a silver coin offering was presented to the Grand President for the children's adoption agency.

The Grand President stated she presented to Governor Earl Warden a petition from the Native Daughters of the Golden West to have " I Love You California," made the state's official song.

She gave an interesting talk on Native Daughter projects, the children's adoption agency, and the Native Daughters' home which is maintained in San Francisco.

There were over 150 members to greet the grand president, and visitors were present from San Diego, San Jose, San Francisco, Roseville, Colfax, Auburn, Lincoln, French Corral and Alleghany. Thelma Butz of Laurel parlor, Hope Thompson of Sierra Pines, Carrie Berryman of Manzanita parlor were formally introduced.

Present also were Laurel's charter member, Lulu Jones, and Manzanita's charter member, Annie Conlin.

Coffee, sandwiches and cake were served in the banquet hall after the parlors adjourned.

Rainbow Girls Home From Grand Assembly Held in Long Beach

Four Nevada City Rainbow Girls, accompanied by Mrs. Mary German, returned Sunday from a week-long grand assembly of the Order of Rainbow for Girls at Long Beach.

Attending the assembly were Joanne Hefelfinger, Madge Nelson, Elizabeth Wilson, and Shirley McElhannan.

They were joined at Long Beach by Genevieve Ellis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Guerdon Ellis. Miss Ellis is past worthy advisor of the Nevada City assembly and served as grand choir director of the grand assembly in 1948. She was honored at the assembly last week when she was presented with the grand cross of colors, high award of Rainbow Girls.

The next meeting of the organization will be held Tuesday at Masonic hall.

John Carter Concert Set For Tonight

John Carter, Metropolitan Opera association tenor, will close the Twin Cities concert association season tonight at 8:15 in the Veterans Memorial building, Grass Valley.

Carter achieved his current success through a series of reverses. It all began when the depression cut short an engineering career while he was enrolled in the College of the City of New York. The following years found him working his uncle's farm in Rockland county, New York, and giving informal recitals. With this revenue he began taking vocal lessons. After two years of sincere and conscientious study, his teacher decided he was ready to try for the Metropolitan. Carter won the audition contests against 707 competitors. Radio discovered that his voice was a brilliant tenor possessed of a quality that talent scouts were pleased to describe as "vocal magnetism."

After his "plum" of the season substituting for Nelson Eddy—fan mail began to pour in. After Eddy's return, Carter had concert offers from several large cities.

Well established in the concert field after similar successes, Carter then made his Metropolitan debut in the role of Des Grieux in "Manon."

During seasons that followed Carter became a favorite in opera. He was also engaged by the Central City Opera company to sing the lead in "The Bartered Bride" in its annual festival, and the following summer was re-engaged for "The Barber of Seville."

Mervyn Hansen Is Bridegroom Easter Sunday

Mervyn Hansen claimed as his bride Miss Patricia Gabbert of Grass Valley in a service held Easter Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Methodist Episcopal church, Grass Valley. The Rev. Donald Getty read the marriage lines.

Manuel Lopes escorted his daughter to the altar. She wore a beautiful princess gown of bridal satin, with a short train. A lace yoke covered the gown. Her three-quarters length veil was held by a head tiara of orange blossoms, and had been worn at the marriage of the groom's mother. Her pearls were borrowed from her mother.

The bride carried a shower bouquet of carnations, lilies of the valley and bouvardia, centered with a white orchid.

Mrs. Robert Berggren was matron of honor and bridesmaids were Miss Barbara Wood, Miss Lynette Key and Miss Alice Hansen, a sister of the groom. The matron of honor wore a gown of yellow and the bridesmaids with bouquets of carnations in wore aqua, blue and lavender complimentary colors.

Robert Berggren was best man. Ushers were Gilbert Gabbert, brother of the bride, Stanley Dundas, Elroy Bingham and Ted Lowery.

The young couple received family members and friends at a reception in adjoining Wesley hall. Serving at the reception were Mrs. Annie Lopes, Mrs. Wood of Hocking Drive and Mrs. Topance of Richmond.

Mr. and Mrs. Hansen are on a wedding trip through the Redwood country and upon their return will make their home in Grass Valley.

Hansen is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Hansen of Nevada City. He was graduated from Nevada City high school and is employed at the Richfield service station here.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Myrtle Gabbert Lopes of Grass Valley. She will be a June graduate of Grass Valley high school.

DECEPTIVE—You cannot judge a person by his looks. The elderly gentleman's appearance belies his nostalgic thoughts. He's one of these crusty old gents. But our casual acquaintance of two years suddenly burst into a friendly one. It was early Sunday morning. Misty. The grass wet with dew. He stood with his hands in his jacket pockets. His little white dog sat at his feet. The pear trees in full bloom formed a fitting background. We talked of possible rain. Of its effect on the fruit trees. His knowledge was astonishing. His kindly manner more so.

* * *

IMPRESSION—The magic of the misty morning was upon us. We slipped back to the day when a 12 year old boy had arrived in the county from the sage brush state. The man was saying: "I was so impressed that day by what I saw that I will never forget it. I was amazed at the green country and huge trees. And when I looked down upon Grass Valley, from the railroad station, what a sight for a little boy's eyes! It was spring. The fruit trees were in bloom. Here and there among them were homes. The houses were not built close together as they are now. I had never seen anything like it in Nevada." The old man disappeared. The boy stood there. A little white dog sat as his feet.

* * *

FRIENDS—If you have only casual ones, perhaps it is because you don't come out of your crusty shell. You are reluctant to let people know that you see the beauties of this old world with appreciative eyes. You keep your impressions to yourself. Old gents and old gals, come out from behind your false fronts. We of this atomic age and high power speed need that beauty that you have found and stored away. We need your friendship. We listened to a beautiful sermon, out in the dew wet field, from an old man while a little white dog sat at his feet.

* * *

NOSTALGIA—We refer to it as physic for the soul. It does us all good to have a dose of it occasionally. What with columnists and radio commentators keeping us upset with their war mongering and the warning that our country is going to the dogs. It's a wonder that we, as a nation, haven't all come down with yellow jaundce. Go out, climb a hill top and look down upon this blossoming country of ours.

History of Sierra Lakes Is Published

"Sierra Nevada Lakes," the last of the American lakes series, a book written by George and Bliss Hinkle of Tahoe City, is more than a record of the lakes in the Sierra—it is an interesting, educational and highly entertaining history of the local region.

With lakes from Honey lake to Mono lake used as a background, the authors, who have spent their entire lives in the region about which they wrote and who have made intricate and thorough study of the area, have blended a story of development, history, humor and tragedy in the volume. Not only is it of great historic value but it embodies incidents throughout the years which have become lore and a part of the region which the book embraces.

Chapters are devoted to Tahoe, its discovery and progress; to Donner with its tragedies and history; Meadow, Webber, Independence, Mono, Honey and scores of others—not histories of the lakes alone but histories of the areas in which the lakes are situated and their people. The book shows not alone a personal intimate knowledge of the region but a research which is seldom found in such works. Such towns as Nevada City, Downieville, Truckee and others are prominently mentioned.

From a standpoint of Sierra history alone the book is valuable and from an entertainment angle it is excellent.

The Hinkles are both natives of Truckee, Mrs. Hinkle being the daughter of pioneer C. F. McGlashan, who wrote the basic history of the Donner party. Both are educators of note and their ability is reflected in "Sierra Nevada Lakes."

DON'T CUT IN

Too many drivers engage in the dangerous practice of "cutting in" sharply after passing another car, points out the California State Automobile association. A safe rule is to wait until you can see the car you have passed in your rear view mirror. Also, be sure, before you start to pass, that you have ample clear space ahead.

Mrs. Fisher's THIRD GRADE

We finished our last series of baseball games with the Gordon Peard's and David William's teams tied.

The captains of the new series are Kenneth Heckenlively and Ernest Crawford. We have played one game. The score is Kenneth, 4, and Ernest 3.

We are sorry to report that Joanne French has left us and moved to Grass Valley.

Miss Hogan's FIFTH GRADE

The lower grades from first to third had an Easter egg hunt on the morning of April 8.

In the afternoon of the same day the grades from fourth to sixth had one too.

The seventh and the eighth grade pupils hid the eggs. Each child brought two hard-boiled eggs. Some of the children colored or dyed the eggs first, but most of the children dyed the eggs at school.

The Nevada City Elementary school traffic directed the children to Pioneer Park where the hunt was held.

In the hunt there were three golden eggs hidden. The children who found them would receive valuable prizes. The pupils finding them in the upper grades were: Warden Miller of Miss Ford's fourth grade, Janet Haley of our grade, and Betty Peacock of Mrs. Haley's sixth grade.

—By Eddie Underwood

Mrs. Haley's SIXTH GRADE

The social studies class has been working on the final scenes of the mural paintings which form a colorful border around the walls of our room. These paintings show the history of our civilization from the days of the cave men until the discovery of America, and every student has had a part in one or more of the posters, which are brilliantly worked in poster paints.

Chuck Masterson, one of our foremost students, transferred last week to a Sacramento school. We shall miss Chuck's lively contributions to our class activities.

A play showing the customs of life in Central America, entitled, "A Present for Pedro", will be given as a final part of our study of the Central American states. Tryouts for parts will be held next week during class.

THE SEVENTH GRADE By Jim Curry

We went to Sacramento Thursday with Mrs. Thibault. We went to the Capital first then to the zoo at William Land park and ate lunch there. Then we went to Sutter's Fort, and then we came home. We got to go because we came in 2nd for funds for the March of Dimes. We had lots of fun.

Mrs. Thibault's 7TH and 8TH GRADES

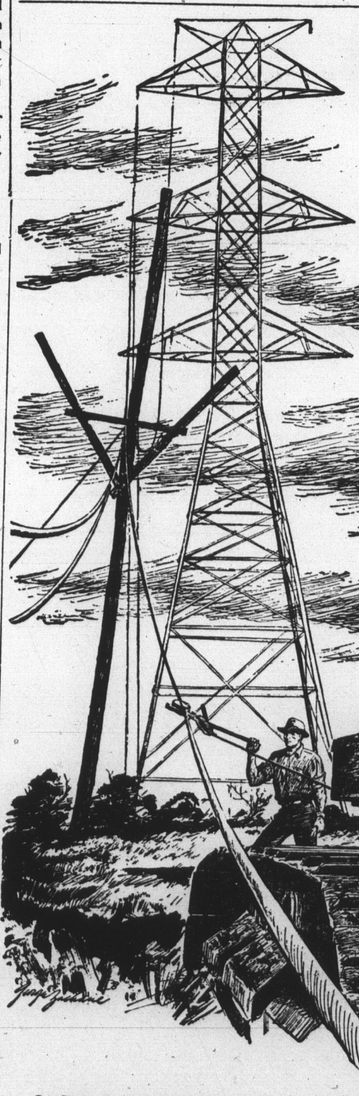
The 7th and 8th grades went to Sacramento before Easter vacation. They visited the Legislature that was in session at the Capital. The names of all the children present will go in the record of proceedings for that day.

Later, the children were taken to William Land park where they enjoyed an hour observing the animals and they also had lunch there.

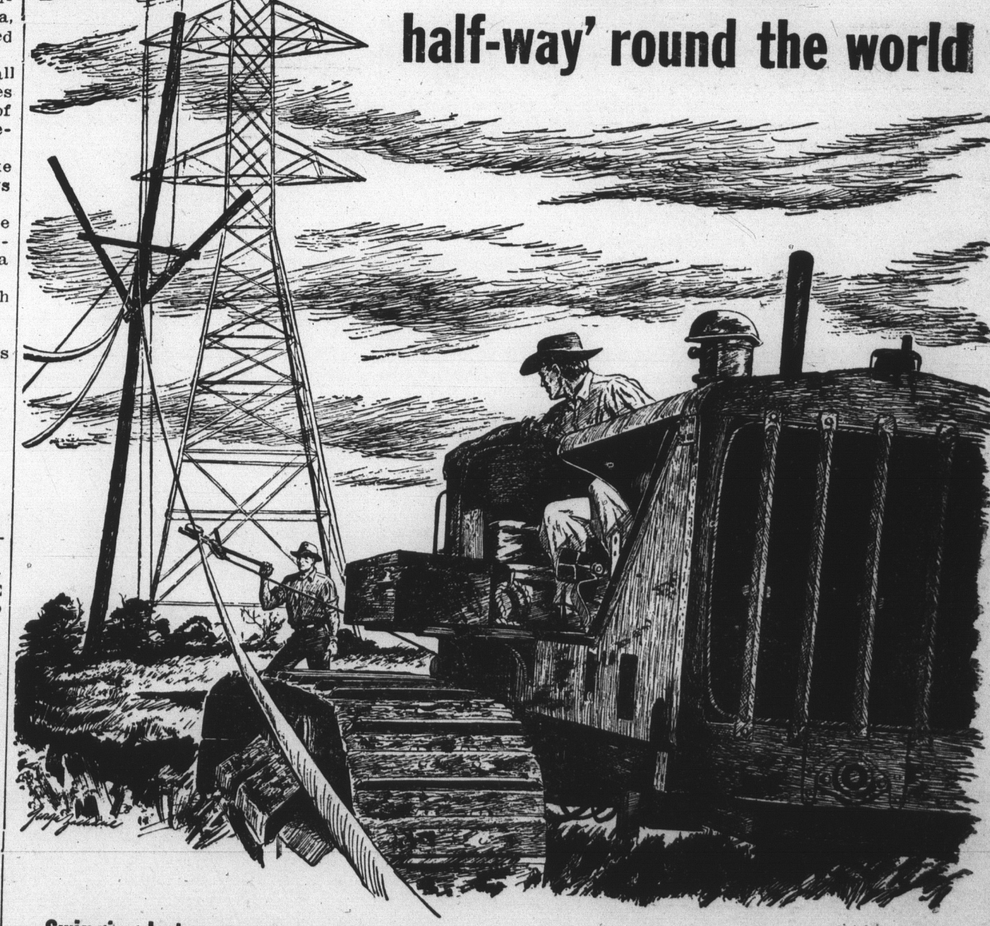
We were then taken to Sutter's Fort and had a chance to view the interesting California relics there.

Everyone arrived in Nevada City about 5:30 p.m. We were a little tired. But everyone agreed that the day had been a great success.

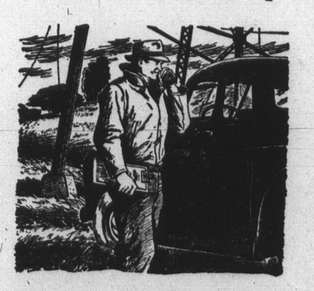
BUILD NEVADA COUNTY



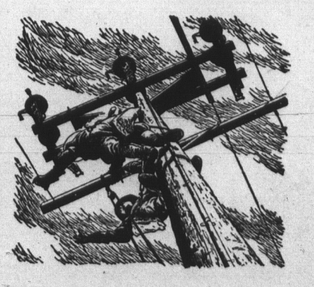
P. G. and E.'s new power lines would reach half-way' round the world



Swinging between towers and poles in Northern and Central California today are some 12,000 miles of new power lines . . . added since war-time building restrictions were lifted. And even more new lines are going up at the rate of 3,000 miles a year. That's three times as fast as prewar construction. All told, more than 50,000 miles of transmission and distribution lines are already on the job in the area we serve—America's largest inter-connected power network.



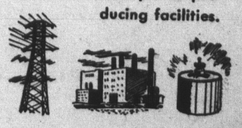
Helping speed the job are new methods and equipment like this radio telephone. With it an engineer can tell a distant winch operator just how much tension to put on the line as it is hoisted up and strung between towers.



These new lines and half a million new horsepower are serving California's expanding industrial and agricultural activities. Last year alone, more than 71,000 new electric customers were connected to P. G. and E's system.

For the record

P. G. and E. is investing millions in new power-producing facilities.



This post-war expansion program—America's greatest—is about at the half-way mark . . .

. . . and is keeping ahead of Northern California's growing power needs.

Work never stops on our power-building program

LOCAL BASEBALL TEAM SERVES NOTICE IT WON'T BE COUSINS IN THE PLACER-NEVADA LEAGUE

The Nevada City baseball team served a sample of the brand of baseball the local fans can expect this year at Pioneer park Sunday afternoon by drubbing Truckee 14-6 in a practice game. The local baseball players played errorless ball in the field and only had a couple of lapses on the bases. Cameron had an error chalked against him but only because a Truckee man ran into the path of his perfect throw to Tiger Thompson at third.

The victory was scored without the help of Nevada City's three imported players from Sacramento. The imported players will only participate in league games.

The game started in fast fashion with the first inning presenting a lightning fast double play by Truckee.

The locals drew first blood in the second inning after Haddy reached first when Rau knicked his uniform with an inside hook. Manager Haddy came home when the Trucke infield let a high pop-up by Radley drop untouched.

Truckee knotted the score in the third when Bernard drove Williams home with a single.

Goldsberry opened the home half of the third with a single, reached second on Cameron's sacrifice. Ralph Childers walked and he and Goldsberry promptly executed two double steals to add a run and advance Childers to third. Babe Childers singled and scored ahead of Haddy's single.

Baxter added Truckee's second run on a walk and Metcalf's double.

Truckee went ahead in the fifth when Nevada City changed pitchers and Fred Anderson walked six of the eight men he hurled to. Jim Trathen went in from first and retired the side on his first pitched ball, Korich weakly grounding out to Cameron.

The local prides came right back in their half of the inning. Haddy and Jones walked and scored on Thompson's dump double down the right field foul line.

To ice the game Babe Childers drove home Cameron and his brother with a booming double to left field in the sixth and scored on Jones' triple. Jones was out at home trying to stretch the hit into a homer.

Bernard added a run for Truckee in the seventh.

Trathen and Thompson singled in the seventh and Ralph Childers was hit a second time by Stevens. Then the Babe stepped to the plate and drove in two more runs with a slashing single to left field. Haddy tripled to deep center and made the final score of the game on a passed ball.

P-N OPENER SUNDAY AT PLACERVILLE

Nevada City's as yet unnamed baseball team travels to Placerville Sunday afternoon to meet the powerful placerville Bartletts in the opening game of the 1949 Placer-Nevada league season.

Manager Marvin Haddy has not yet announced his starting line-up. Certain starters are George Cameron as catcher, Jake Goldsberry at short, Carl Thompson at third, and Babe Childers, Tony Kozinski and Stan Jones in the pastures. At first will be either Jim Trathen or Gene Harris, import from Sacramento. Either Fred Schroeder or Haddy will cavort at second.

Haddy has three pitchers to choose from and Babe Perry, Sacramento import, will probably get the nod to start the Bartlett game. Perry hurled last year for the Spokane Indians of the Western International league, but is staying out of organized professional baseball this year. Bob Radley and Fred Anderson may see action if the Babe cannot keep the powerful Bartlett sluggers in check. Jim Trathen can always be relied on for a few innings of first rate pitching when necessary.

The team will leave from Haddy's service station Sunday at 9 a.m. The team will participate in a parade in downtown Placerville at 1 p.m. as part of opening game festivities.

The first home game for the local team is Sunday, May 8, against the Grass Valley Braves.

Other opening games Sunday see Truckee at Folsom, Colfax at Lincoln, Grass Valley at Auburn, and the two Roseville teams clubbing each other.
